

Rehearse For "The Mikado"

LINCOLN-Way Choral department is staging Gilbert & Sullivan's "The Mikado" in the school auditorium the nights of Nov. 10 and 11. Here are the Three Little Japanese Maids as played by (l to r) Sandra Gregory, Ju'v Kuchenbecker and Sandra Kooyenga. At the far left is Peter Burns in the part of the Mikado's son who is pretending to be a minstrel. Introducing him to the girls is Terry Larsen as a noble lord.

THE MIKADO HIMSELF as played by James DeHart and the other is Lorraine Kramer, who has the part of an elderly Japanese woman in a frowning mood. These looks are directed to the three characters below who may be saying.

LET'S NOT LOSE OUR HEADS because they know the Mikado has a habit bidding the royal executioners to carry on with his work on the slip 'st provocation. In these parts (l to r) are, Charles Johnson as Lord High Everything, Sandra Gregory and Richard Osmus, the Lord High Executioner.

THE SCORE of "The Mikado" is being gone over by the accompanists under the direction of Tom Olson, head of vocal music in the school and director of the operetta. Seated at the piano are Mike Cullen and Mary Knapp. The young man standing is Wayne Swanberg.

LIGHTING EFFECTS for the operetta are being discussed by David Schuelke, of the faculty, and Charles Turnbough, student stage electrician.

Explains Sales Tax Rules On Church Suppers

The Illinois department of revenue has re-evaluated its stand in connection with the collection of retailers' occupation tax on sales at rummage sales, bakery sales and dinners sponsored by religious, charitable and educational groups, Theodore J. Isaacs, director of revenue, said today.

It was the apparent intent of the general assembly to limit the unfair tax advantage of exempt organizations when selling merchandise that could also be purchased at commercial outlets, Isaacs said. In these cases, exempt organizations did not charge tax on sales of an item while an ordinary retailer would charge the tax.

In connection with exempt rummage sales, the following rules will apply, Isaacs said: 1-the sale must be sponsored by a church, charity or school and the entire proceeds must revert to the sponsoring organization; 2-the merchandise must be donated to the sponsoring organization for the purpose of the sale only; 3-the sale must be of an occasional nature, held annually or semi-annually, and not continuing; 4-there must not be a business supply firm or any other promotional organization in the background using the sponsoring organization as a means to sell its goods.

In the case of exempt bakery sales, Isaacs said, the following rules will apply: 1-the sale must be sponsored by a church, charity or school and the entire proceeds must revert to the sponsoring organization; 2-items sold must be donated to the sponsoring organization and may not be supplied for a consideration; 3-the sale must be of an occasional nature.

In the case of dinners given by churches, charities or schools, Isaacs said the following rules will apply if the activity is to gain an exempt status: 1-the dinner must be sponsored by a church, charity or school and the entire proceeds must revert to the sponsoring organization; 2-the food must be prepared by members of the selling organization without consideration; 3-the dinner must be given on the premises of the sponsoring organization, 4-the dinner must be confined in the case of a church to its members and their guests, and in the case of a school to its students and faculty and must not be open to the public.

Isaacs said examples of taxable dinners would be the case in which a church organization serves a dinner to members of a civic club, or when a church sells dinners to the public, such as persons on their way to a football game.

Fred Scheel Remembers L-W, New Lenox Library In Will

Lincoln-Way high school and the New Lenox township library are among the institutions named as beneficiaries in the will of Fred H. Scheel, of New Lenox township, who died last Sept. 20, leaving an estate valued at more than $200,000.

Mr. Scheel, who was identified with the utilities field before his retirement, was quite active in community affairs and served on the New Lenox library board. He was also interested in Lincoln-Way high school and for the benefit of students there he left $25,000 in trust to provide scholarships.

There are to be four scholarships of $500 each to be awarded each year to graduates of Lincoln-Way, the will provides. The awards will be made by a vote of the faculty.

Supt. A. Hunter Chapman of Lincoln-Way high school in a bulletin to the students and faculty expressed gratitude over the bequest.

"All of us," he said, "should forever live up to this wonderful vote of confidence by one of our citizens and neighbors."

His widow, Mrs. Edith M. Scheel, his daughter, Mrs. Eleanor S. Grubb, of Concord, Mass. and the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago, are named as trustees.

The library is to receive $2,000, as are Silver Cross hospital, St. John's Universalist church, Joliet, the Union League Boys club, Chicago, and The Cradle, of Evanston.

The will was signed Jan. 6, 1961. The residue of the estate after the various bequests are met is left in trust for his widow and daughter. Upon their deaths the money remaining in the trust will go to the daughter's survivors. Should her children precede her in death she has the right to dispose of the residuary trust. There is a daughter and son Fred K. Grubb and Amanda Grubb, both of Concord.

Each of them was left $20,000 under the will and the daughter is bequeathed $50,000, in addition to her share in the trust estate.

Mr. Scheel's personal effects, plus farm property, improvements, crops and farm machinery, are left to the widow.

Three sisters are each left $4,000. Mrs. Minnie Elsner, of Frankfort; Mrs. Sophia Bruggeman, of Monee and Mrs. Eleanor Weitendorf, also of Frankfort.

A trust of $30,000 is set up for the benefit of a nephew, Richard N. Hobbs, of Crystal Lake. He is to be paid in monthly installments. Also to be paid in monthly installments is $10,000 left in trust for Peter F. Hobson, of Crystal Lake; and another $10,000 is placed in trust for Christopher N. Hobbs, of Crystal Lake.

Other bequests are: To William and Virginia Migley, of Palatine, $2,000; to Mrs. Joseph Yeager, of New Lenox, $5,000; to Esther France, of Benton Harbor, Mich., $5,000; to Norman T. Hobson and Mrs. Marlen Hobson, of Harvey, $4,000; to George and Sylvia Mackey, South Chicago street, Joliet, $2,000.

There is a provision in the will that gifts made to beneficiaries prior to his demise are to be deducted from the bequest.

The widow, daughter and the Continental bank are named as co-executors. The bank asks that it be appointed inasmuch as the widow does not wish to serve and the daughter resides outside the state.

Chamber Pens Critique Of The Frankfort Scene

A communication urging action to clear up a condition is described as an "eyesore," has been received by the Frankfort village board from the Frankfort Chamber of Commerce.

The letter, which was signed by Ralph Show, auto dealer as president of the Chamber, was read to the village trustees at the meeting Monday night.

"The Chamber of Commerce feels that it is its duty to bring the attention of the village board to some of the most unattractive sights which tend to make our town an eyesore to those who pass thru and to prospective residents. . . there are many (unattractive sights) but these four should be considered first:

"1.-The southwest corner of Nebraska and White street. . . a junk yard for old buses.

"2.-The northeast corner of Nebraska and Walnut, many-old parked cars.

"3.-One block west of Maple on Oregon many old cars.

"4.-The general housekeeping of the E.J. & E. railroad. . . a lack of weed cutting. . . old box cars (on a siding in the village).

"We feel that the town can be more attractive for the betterment of the businesses of the town and for its people and we know the village board is in accord with this in mind. We feel that there must be some legal means of cleaning up these unattractive places.

"The Chamber of Commerce requests that immediate action be taken by the village board now in order that this condition does not spread into other parts of our town. . ."

Trustees are giving consideration to the complaint. There are some technical questions, it was pointed out. When is junk junk, for instance, as covered by ordinance.

LW Board Hires Firm To Plan Expansion Program

At a short meeting of the Lincoln Way high school board last Thursday, an architectural firm was chosen for the contemplated building program for the school.

Childs and Smith, the firm that originally planned the school and subsequent additions to the school, will be retained for future expansion work, subject to 6 per cent in fees for all services rendered by the firm. O. H. Breidert, representative of the firm, was at the meeting.

Altho definite plans for future expansion have not been formulated, it is anticipated that with a noticeable increase in future enrollment, additional conventional classroom, science lab and library area will be needed.

Bids for gasoline were opened at this meeting. The contract for gas and oil was awarded to Cities Service, the low bidder. Kenneth Kinney, a teacher, will receive an additional $500 for extra teaching duties.

SHUT OFF MOKENA WATER TONIGHT

The Mokena village board has announced that the water will be shut off tonight, Thursday, at 8 o'clock, in order to complete work on a new hydrant. The water was scheduled to be turned off last week, but since certain repairs could not be accomplished, it was postponed until tonight.

Mokenans Bag 6 Deer On 3-Day Hunt

Three hundred pounds of venison in his freezer and a yen to return next year for another hunt were two of the major results of expedition to Colorado by Ray Bisgrove, Mokena building contractor, and his step-father, Edward Boehm, Sr.

The two returned on Wednesday night of last week after a hunting trip along the Colorado-Wyoming border with Mr. Boehm's son, Edward Jr., of Denver, and already are planning next year's trip.

One can buy two hunting licenses in Colorado and the state gives them a third. One may take a deer on each license, buck or doe this year. Bisgrove had three licenses and bagged three deer.

Mule deer inhabit the western country and are much larger than the species one encounters in Wisconsin and Michigan. The difference in size and weight was quite apparent, Bisgrove said, when it came time to get the animal back to camp.

It was quite cold in the mountains where they were hunting, Bisgrove said, and preserving the meat would have been no difficulty but they had gone prepared and had a sufficient supply of dry ice to assure the freshness of their kill on arrival home.

The trip covered some 1,300 miles each way. The Mokena men were gone a week. Their actual hunting time in which a total of six deer were taken began on a Saturday and ended on Monday morning.

They hope to hunt there next year only maybe it will be for elk instead of deer, Bisgrove said. The elk season is just opening now.

Chaplain Will Address Mokena Lions

The Mokena Lions club will meet tonight, Nov. 2, at Ritt's restaurant to hear Father Gervase Brinkman, O.F.M., prison chaplain.

Dinner is to be served at 7 o'clock.

Father Gervase has been the Roman Catholic chaplain at Stateville - Joliet penitentiary since 1947 and he has some interesting views on crime and punishment.

He has served as president of the Correctional Chaplains group and more recently as president of the entire American Correctional Association.

Father Gervase has other duties too. He recently was appointed chaplain and associate professor at Lewis college.

Push Hunt For Attacker Of Tinley Park Woman

Will county authorities are pushing a search for a man posing as a police officer who assaulted a young Tinley Park mother about 10 o'clock on Wednesday night (Oct. 25).

The assault took place on a country road in the vicinity of Gougar road and U. S. 30.

The victim told investigators that the man was driving a car with a red flasher light on the roof. He fell in behind her car at Richards and Washington streets in Joliet and followed her out to where Washington street joins U. S. 30 at Gougar road.

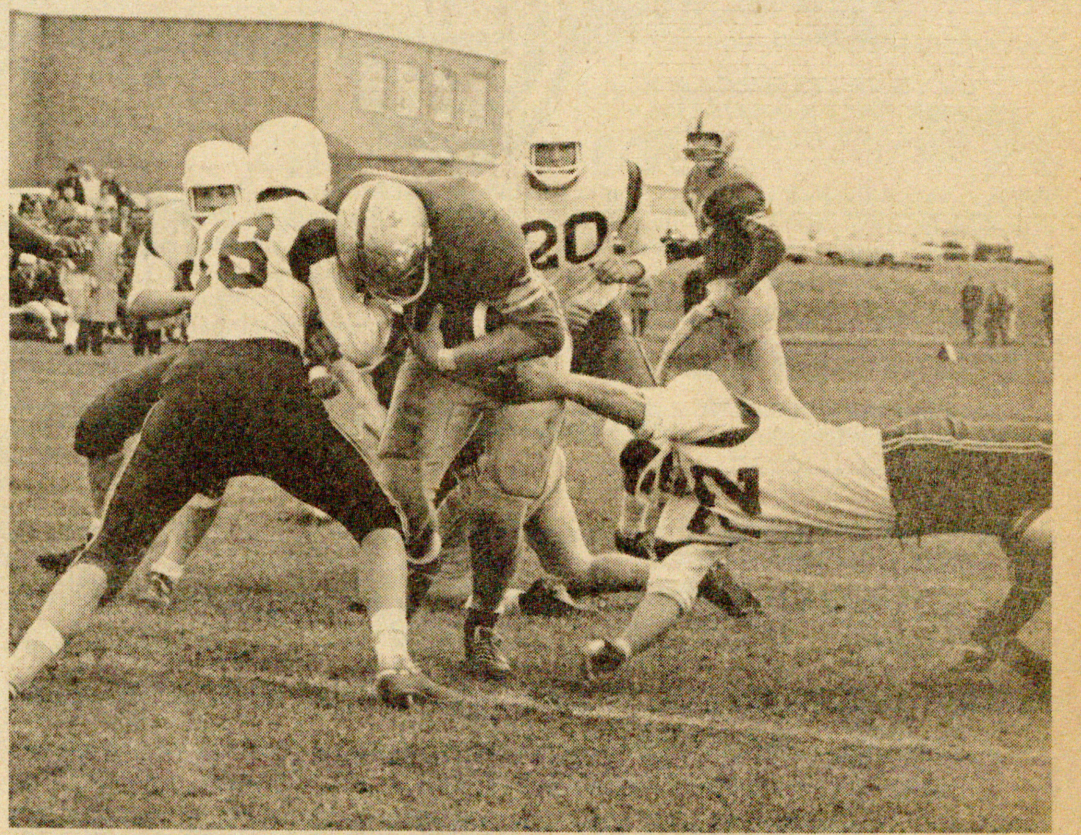

As the woman slowed for the stop the red light on the other car began twirling and the man threw a spotlight on her car. The woman stopped her car and the man came over, flashed a badge and demanded her driver's license and car registration card, the woman said. She opened the glove compartment to get the registration card, the victim stated, and at that point the man forced his way into the driver's seat.

He drove to deserted country road and there attacked her. He then drove back to where he had left his car by the roadside and drove away.

The victim drove to District 4 state police headquarters at Blue Island and reported the affair. District 4 police relayed report to the sheriff's police of Will county.

The care driven by the man was described as having a light blue body and a dark blue top. The victim believed it was a Ford.

Fisher Favors Idea Of Workshops Districts

The Orland-Palos Workshop Institute was held last week at Carl Sandburg high school. According to Supt. W. O. Fisher an attempt to coordinate teaching technique with that of the district's elementary schools and the high school is a desirable project for the present as well as the future.

Mr. Fisher expressed the hope that, possibly, more could be accomplished towards superior teaching by coordinating the efforts within the Sandburg school area thru an institute within the school district, than going far afield for such workshops.

Supt. Fisher's hopes lie in the present as well as in the future for the very best in teaching techniques in order that the young people in the Sandburg area may develop their potentialities.

U.S. Pharmaceutical Houses Leaders In Drug Research

Various individuals, officials and agencies have been taking pot-shots of late at the American pharmaceutical industry and in the course of what would appear to be a campaign have been rather careless with the truth. There have been instances of what would appear to be outright falsehood, it was brought out.

For example, figures were introduced at a congressional investigation which purported to show that 110 drugs originated in other countries as compared to 68 in the United States -- 48 by drug houses and 20 by non-commercial laboratories. Such figures were intended to infer that U.S. leadership in drug research was a myth.

But as the late Al Smith used to say, "Let's look at the record."

In the course of the hearing expert testimony was given that changed the picture completely. It was brought out that in order to compile the list of foreign achievements in the drug field it was necessary to go back thru the centuries. Two of the drugs on the list date back to the 1500's and others to the 1600's, 1700's and 1800's.

More than half on the list preceded 1939, when the U.S. drug industry was just pioneering modern chemotherapy. Since that year progress in this field in the United States has been extraordinary. Our pharmaceutical firms, the testimony disclosed, have originated or first developed at least 35 of the listed products as against 14 for Germany, seven for Switzerland and five for France. No other country is responsible for as many as four of the new drug products.

No nation has a monopoly on medicines and that is as it should be. Science, invention and individual genius are not confined by boundary lines. But this country stands at the very forefront in the production and development of drugs that have performed miracles for human beings everywhere.

Millinery Style Notes

Ordinarily the editorial columns of a newspaper pay little heed to fashion notes except now and then when some designer comes out with some ridiculous style that makes women look like visitors from another planet.

That we approach such a subject now is because we would like to let pheasant hunting husbands know what to expect.

If the Will County Extension Council--a farm bureau organization--has any response to its invitation to the women in the county, the fair ones, they will wind up looking like Indians or South Sea Islanders.

The extension council is going to conduct a class Oct. 31 on the preparation of pheasant feathers for hats.

We can't imagine adult women all blossoming out with pheasant feathers in their hats, unless the extension council knows ways and means of tinting, trimming, curling and otherwise make them appear to be some other kinds of feathers.

We have no objections to women wearing pheasant feathers in their hats. We are just curious as to whether they actually will.

Now if the instructions were to be given in high school we would expect to find unanimous adoption of the style--except for one thing, high school girls do not wear hats.

We are also curious as to the reaction of husbands to this pheasant feather deal. Will the husbands who hunt pheasant bring in fewer birds? We don't know just what is meant by the preparation of pheasant feathers but we have a suspicion that the women who attend the class will in turn conduct classes of their own to instruct husbands as to the kind of feathers they want and how to preserve them.

There is a danger, of course, that if the husbands begin working with feathers they may get the idea of tying flies for fish lures and neglect getting the hat feathers ready for the class in millinery.

The wives will know how to take care of that problem if it should arise and far be it from us to make any suggestions as to a division of the feather crop.

Getting in the middle of a family matter is not conducive to peace, quiet and tranquility. How about a nice cup of coffee?

Hints For Homeowners

The ability of a rose plant to withstand winter weather depends on the condition of the plant, and the manner in which low temperature occurs.

Plans that have had proper care throughout the growing season are more likely to withstand severe winters than unhealthy plants since healthy plants are able to manufacture the maximum amount of sugars and to mature properly.

Fluctuating winter temperatures are much harder on roses than consistently low temperatures.

In our climate, these fluctuating temperatures predominate, make it essential to afford the plants some protection which will serve, not to keep them warm, but to avoid sudden changes in temperature.

With small hybrid teas and floribundas, the best method is to mound up soil around the base of the plant. The pile of soil should be eight to ten inches high. This should be done after the first killing frost, while the ground can still be worked. Be sure when gathering the soil around the plant not to expose any roots. It is probably better to bring in soil from another part of the yard for this, than to risk damage to roots while scraping around among the roses.

Tree roses are quite susceptible to winter injury. In protected locations, the top can be wrapped with straw and covered with burlap.

In exposed locations, the plant should be pulled over to one side and covered with soil or straw.

This is done by digging under the roots on one side until the plant can be pulled over without completely breaking all connections with the soil, and tying the end securely so that it is not tossed about by winter winds.

Proper attention to preparing your roses for winter will insure that they will come thru even the most severe winter in the best possible condition.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

The Illinois farm bureau marketing and women's organizations have put the how-to gimmick in their present campaign to boost chicken and turkey sales.

The how-to method is the foundation of the educational system today and has extended into business. In fact it is a business. How-to is the thing that sells the do-it-yourself gadgets so why not turkeys.

What concerns the person who raises turkeys, chickens, ducks etc, is to dispose of the finished product in as large quantities as possible and as soon as possible.

Anything he can do to promote the consumption of his wares is more velvet for his coffers.

The how-to he is promoting now is carving--"How to Carve A Turkey," and we can dispense with that line from Joe Miller's joke primer--"first get a turkey...."

The brochure on turkey carving, according to the farm bureau's press release, describes two methods for carving, the standard style and a side style.

We do not have the brochure at hand so we are at a loss as to whether the side style embodies free style carving and the catch-as-catch-can method or is a more formalized handling of the bird.

The best way to shred up a turkey known to this department is to do the job in the kitchen and if it is at all possible to have the kitchen to yourself at that time so much the better, for the little woman as well as yourself.

Unless one is a professional chef or an amateur that was dedicated as a small child to become a turkey carver and has practiced daily, carving up odds and ends to perfect his art, it is a far, far better thing to defy one's wife and refuse to make a public appearance.

Standing up there at the head of a table with a great, danged big turkey on a platter before you does something to one that is akin to stage fright. There is this bird, brown and luscious, cooked to perfection. But look out! There is some juice on the platter, so be careful. The thing can slide, you know, and that fork--it looks big enough in a drawer but now it has to hold a turkey in place while you make with the knife, it suddenly becomes a flimsy thing. You poke it in the breast and you feel the turkey slither.

A picture flashes thru your mind--the turkey skids off the platter, carrying glasses and silver before it and overturns the gravy boat.

Steady on, Grenadiers! You are perspiring some now but you get a grip on yourself--and the fork--and you start taking off the drumsticks.

The professional carver makes it look easy. A swift cut, with a circular motion, or so it seems, a slight twist and there it is, ma, no legs and no ragged edges. A positive pass of the knife and the thigh and leg are separated.

But not for you. Where there should be a joint is now apparently a solid bone, reinforced with steel. You have to worry it off. And naturally, the person who dressed your turkey, no doubt thinking it was destined for a master carver, neglected to remove those corset stays that are standard equipment on turkey legs.

And one can't just cut off the legs and throw them under the table or out of a window. There are always people who want dark meat so you hack, wrench and struggle with the legs to get it.

It seems to me that there is a field here for some turkey raiser to become famous and reap a fortune. All he has to do is grow a bird with dark meat forming one side of the breast and white meat the other.

Sawing slices off the breast isn't difficult so when you get to that part you are like Flynn--a bit messy perhaps, but definitely in. The once snowy tablecloth at your end of the table is a bit dappled here and there but the worst is over and you can relax. So can your wife. Once there when you were trying to slice the dark meat and the leg almost got away you caught a glimpse of the little woman's face. Sure, she gave you a smile but it was a tight smile, made even tighter by her quick intake of breath and her eyes rolling up with that long suffering oh-that-man-will-be-the-death-of-me-yet look. But she is all right now and will never

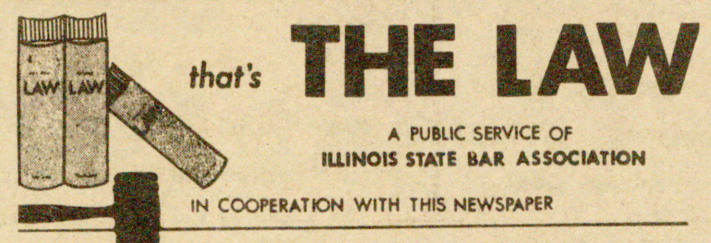

... crankiest critter I ever saw!"

Instructions in carving now available should serve at least two purposes--promote improved domestic relations and the sale of turkeys. If a person is going to become a good carver he has to practice doesn't he? Say a turkey a day and two on Sunday.

There is really no necessity for this, however. Have you ever noticed how expert the women are at carving? A fair distribution of labor in the serving of turkey is for the wife to roast the bird and bring it in from the kitchen that the guests may see and praise it. Then the husband can carry it back to the kitchen and there the wife proceed to carve it. Then she is assured it will be done right. Remember men, flattery will get you somewhere.

Carving in the kitchen is best. Out there it is no-holds-barred-and-winner-take all. One can protect his free hand against heat with cloth and with a firm grip on the bird thus assured can really go to town.

THE LAW OF NAMES
Must you go to court to change your name? Is a contract or will invalid if your name is misspelled or if your middle initial is wrong? Are there any legal restrictions placed upon your choosing a name for your business or corporation?

At birth, most of us receive two or three names, a "given" or "first" name, a "middle" name, and a "family" or "surname." In law, the middle name is relatively unimportant, and if used erroneously will ordinarily have no effect upon the validity of a legal document.

Errors in the use of the given or family names, however, may be more serious, and cause the instrument to be unenforceable in court. However, such mistakes are not necessarily fatal, and if it can be proved that the name was mistakenly used with intent to identify a particular person, courts may enforce the document. For example, if the will of Ebenezer Carriage leaves $1,000 to "my old friend and horsehoe partner, Harry Smith," Harry Brown may be able to collect the money if he can prove that Ebenezer made a mistake in writing "Smith" instead of "Brown."

If the document were a contract, Harry may ask the court to correct the error, and then as corrected.

A married woman properly identifies herself for legal purposes by using her own given name and her husband's surname, for example, "Ruth Carey."

CHANGING NAMES
Illinois law provides a simple and speedy procedure for changing personal names. The proceeding is begun by publishing notice of the intended change in a local newspaper; a petition is filed asking for the change, and finally a court decree is entered announcing the official change. No particular reason for making the change need be shown, and the petition will normally be granted so long as the change is not sought for the purpose of fraud or avoiding payment of debts, and the like.

It is interesting that this legal proceeding is purely voluntary, and that, for proper purposes, we can effectively change any of our names at will. Thus, a person may acquire as many "aliases" names as he desires, for the law recognizes that names are merely arbitrary symbols. Of course, to avoid dispute and misunderstanding, it is advisable to obtain a court decree embodying the change.

BUSINESS NAMES
The law places definite restrictions on use of names by businesses and professional

Business & Finance

MAURICE P. ANGLAND

In a general way, the stock market has been churning about in a limited range. Whether the general tone of the market is up or down, there will always be situations which will develop in an opposite direction to the general trend. The stock exchanges list the securities of many different firms and each firm will have its own problems and individual results from their management efforts.

It is expected that the generally good nine month earnings reports and predictions of a good final quarter with further increases in 1962, will cause the securities markets to show a more firm rising tendency. Analysts point out that the market has been rather steady on a price plateau that cannot be considered particularly low. It is also being pointed out that the market is showing signs of breaking out of the narrow range on the up side.

The Financial World comments that in recent sessions, the number of issues traded, has begun to increase, and so far this month the number of stocks showing plus signs, has far outweighed the minus signs. Similarly, new highs recorded in trading sessions during October, have been much more numerous than new lows. "These breadth of market indicators are frequently portents of strength to come."

This magazine also notes that economists are more optimistic on business in 1962, than are many businessmen. Economists, holding top positions, seem to expect the next year to show business activity increases by around 10 per cent over 1961.

Industrial activity indices dipped reflecting the motor car strikes and related industrial slow down.

Residential building is improving and personal income increases make interesting news to the retail trade. The holiday season is expected to set a new record.

Financial magazines and news items have carried considerable comment on the statement of the Secretary of Treasury that the government will show about a $7 billion deficit by the end of this fiscal year--June 30, 1962. This deficit situation may be difficult to reverse in spite of expressed intention of the Administration to balance the next fiscal budget. Some leading commentators doubt this balance can be achieved so soon.

The Financial World comments--"As consumer spending and business plant and equipment investment follow the upturn in government spending, demand for goods and services will press upon capacity to supply them. Then a shift in Federal Reserve easy money policy may be too little and too late." The magazine advises consideration of issues which will benefit from possible reduction in purchasing power of the dollar--such as extractive industries, i.e. oil, mines, etc.

The Administration has been officially calling attention to the fact that our industrial equipment must be the very latest and also aided by automation, in order to keep our competitive position in the industrial world. It is now proposed that the next session of congress increase depreciation allowances to industry can keep abreast with newest mechanical and scientific developments in production and with depreciation allowances large enough to insure this. Industry has long complained about unrealistic depreciation allowances in tax schedules.

THE PASTORS DESK

DEPENDENCE ON FAITH
Ascribe to the Lord, O heavenly beings, ascribe to the Lord glory and strength,
Ascribe to the Lord the glory of his name;
worship the Lord in holy array.
The voice of the Lord is upon the waters;
the God of glory thunders, the Lord, upon many waters.
The voice of the Lord is powerful, the voice of the Lord is full of majesty.

The ocean is wonderful and thrilling to watch. Each time I have crossed it, I have loved standing in the bow of the ship to see the changing nuances of light as they stream across the horizon. Flaming crimson becomes intertwined with rich golds as light fashioned its brilliant display of the glory of God. The web they weave has reminded me of the ancient legends of the web of fate. These ancient myths state that destiny has woven a strand of fine hair for each facet of life. When that strand is broken, the life of a man ceases.

We, too, must face the possibility that the strands of our lives may be snapped at any moment. Each part of our being is dependent on our faith in God. Nevertheless, we ignore the commandments set before us by God. We place our confidence in the power of the world, and we seek for our salvation there. We find our salvation on the altar of God. Instead, we bring our thanksgiving to the altar of social life. "Ascribe to the Lord the glory of his name..." which was sent to us in Jesus Christ. We have forgotten that only through Jesus Christ can we maintain unbroken lives. Only as we thank God for his blessings can we understand the nature of our world. Only as we seek God's guidance can we know the salvation He gave to us in Jesus Christ.

PRAYER
Guide us, O Lord, to forget ourselves. Help us to be willing to devote our lives to Thee that Thy Holy Spirit may use our lives in Thy service. We dedicate ourselves to Thee in trust and in faith of Thy power. Let Thy Son, Jesus Christ, so fill our lives that we might be Thy messengers to all the lands. In His name we pray. Amen.

DAILY THOUGHT
Only in God is there strength to meet the tasks of life.

COOK COUNTY FARM ADVISER
TINLEY PARK - KE 2-4369

A demonstration to show the value of beef performance testing was performed on the Norman Strassenburg farm last week. About 15 farmers from the south Cook area attended the demonstration. In the performance testing program, calves of approximately seven years of age are weighed and graded. These calves will be fed and weighed and graded again at one year of age. A rate of gain can then be established. By keeping a record of the cows that produced the fastest gaining calves, a beef producer can upgrade his herd.

Dick Carlisle, University of Illinois livestock extension specialist, helped grade the calves and explained the program to those present. Beef performance testing can be started on any herd. All the herd owner has to do is make a request to the extension office.

An automotive 4-H project advisory committee has been recently organized in southern Cook county. This committee will attempt to get several automotive project clubs going this fall and winter. The automotive program deals primarily with understanding how the automobile functions, automotive safety, and automotive maintenance. This program is open to any 4-H member 15 years of age or older. This program was so designed that it fits in very well with the driver education program in local high schools. There is very little duplication between the two programs.

A committee composed of the South Cook 4-H fair association, the agricultural extension council, and the North Cook 4-H fair association, met this week to take a good look at the way we are now conducting 4-H fairs in this county. The aim of the committee will be to provide the best possible opportunity for 4-H club members to exhibit their project work. It is a study committee and it will undoubtedly be some time before any results of committee work will be published. Members of the committee from this area are: Neil H. Struening; Sergeant Rene Fuentes; Warren Kammerer; Charles R. Mason, Jr. and T.W. Thompson, Park Forest; Jack Brown, Bill Spellbring, Chicago Heights; Gerald VanderMeer, Glenwood; Mrs. Ann Rodger, Tinley Park; Mr. Emil Wilkins, Country Club Hills; Jack Donohue, Joliet; Sergeant Richard R. Massa, Blue Island. Also Robert Hood, assistant farm adviser, Mrs. Jessie Coulter, assistant home adviser, Phyllis Harris, Park Forest, 4-H AYA, and Wm. F. Whiteside, farm adviser.

Capsule Editorial

We often make the mistake of believing that money is wealth. Of course it is only the symbol of work done, services rendered, value received. It is not meant to be used as power over others, not to be hoarded, stolen, or squandered. It is stamped "In God We Trust"--but many have mentally inserted the letter L, making it read "In Gold We Trust." Our personal standard has sometimes been the Gold Standard. Wouldn't a much finer one be the Golden Rule?

MRS. RUDOLPH P. GUZIK

Chicago Girl Becomes Bride Of Former Frankfort Resident

On Sunday, Oct. 22, at the Temple Beth Israel in Chicago, Miss Judith Leland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benn H. Leland, 4416 N. Mozart, Chicago, became the bride of Rudolph P. Guzik, formerly of Frankfort, of 218 W. 33rd St., Chicago.

Rabbi Ernst Lorge performed the evening, double ring ceremony. Florence Bush was the organist and Morton Samelson sang "I Love Thee."

Escorted to the altar by her parents, the bride wore a sheath of rayon and acetate crepe with a fully gathered overskirt and a shoulder length veil. She wore a single pearl on a chain and a diamond heirloom engagement ring. Her flowers were stephanotis with a white orchid resting on a white satin bridal Bible.

Miss Leona Guzik, a student at Normal, was the maid of honor. She wore a pale blue organza, knee-length dress interlaced with silver thread. Her corsage was of small, red roses.

Kenneth Leland served as best man. The bride's mother wore a navy blue taffeta gown with rhinestone accessories. Mrs. Guzik, the groom's mother, was attired in a gown with a black nylon lace bodice over a pink lining and a chiffon gathered skirt over acetate. She wore rhinestone jewelry. They wore orchid corsages.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. A four tier wedding cake centered the table. The couple will continue with their studies at the Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago and reside at 218 W. 33rd St. Mr. Guzik is a senior and the new Mrs. Guzik is a junior.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland will honor the couple with an open house on Nov. 5.

Glass, China, Silver Of Presidents On Display At Chicago Art Institute

"Dinner with the Presidents," an exhibition of glass, china and silver used by presidents of the United States from 1791 to 1961 will open in The Art Institute of Chicago on Friday, Oct. 26, and continue thru Sunday, December 3, 1961.

The exhibition lent from the White House for the first time will be shown exclusively in the Art Institute. It was arranged by Hans Huth, Curator of the Decorative Arts Department of the Art Institute.

Additional items from museums, historic houses, and manufacturers who have designed presidential dinnerware and glass will augment the varied selection from the executive mansion. "Examples of dinnerware used by all presidents could not be found in the White House alone," Dr. Huth says, "partly because of a now obsolete law requiring that incomplete dinner sets be destroyed at the end of a president's term. Broken sets were pounded to bits and thrown into the Potomac River."

"All dinner services used by President James Madison were destroyed by fire in the War of 1812," Dr. Huth continues; "and, when citizens almost mobbed the White House to greet President Andrew Jackson, dozens of plates and glasses were broken."

Individual pieces from turkeys and salad plates to cut glass bowls and goblets used by eighteen different presidents are included in the exhibition. Thirteen presidents did not need new table appointments but used those purchased by predecessors.

Eight place settings used by Abraham Lincoln, Ulysses S. Grant, Rutherford B. Hayes, Benjamin Harrison, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Harry Truman will be displayed on a dinner table holding floral arrangements in period centerpieces.

The first state dinner services used in the young Republic came from France. George Washington purchased the gold-edged Sevres service from the Comte de Moustier in 1790, adding pieces from the Duc d'Angouleme and Nast manufactures. A state dinner set offered at "Public Vendue" in Baltimore in 1785 had been refused because of its high price.

John Adams, second President of the United States, also purchased a set of Sevres china decorated with flowers. The set of Far Eastern china which was ordered for Jefferson did not arrive until his term as President was over, and he had returned to Monticello.

Presidents from Franklin Pierce to Benjamin Harrison sent their orders for dinnerware to a New York importer, David Haviland, who had established a manufactory in Limoges. Woodrow Wilson was the first president to order dinnerware from an American firm—

Lenox, Inc. He also was the first to order the presidential seal rather than the U.S. coat of arms used as decoration.

The most elaborate service ever used at the White House was introduced by Rutherford Hayes. Some 130 different designs for decorating the set were made by artist Theodore R. Davis, using American flora and fauna as inspiration. This unconventional set was rejected by subsequent presidents as too individual to suit all tastes (its butter dishes, for example, were decorated with snowshoes).

A special display of cut crystal used by various presidents and a display of French Empire silver made by Napoleon's silversmith, Biennais, and others, will also be featured in the exhibition. Much of the White House silverware exhibited here for the first time, has spent years in White House vaults and was unknown to several generations. It has only recently been identified and restored to a position of historic fame.

Identification began when Dr. Huth sent a check-list of silver known to have existed in James Monroe's and Andrew Jackson's time. The results of the ensuing search by Mrs. Kennedy and the recently appointed White House curator, Mrs. John N. Pearce, may be seen in the current exhibition.

Photographs available.

COOK COUNTY PERSONAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT FOR 1961

This publication is the official notice to property owners of the 1961 personal property assessments made in the town and district indicated.

RETURNS AND ESTIMATES
THE LAW PROVIDES THAT, WHERE A PROPERTY OWNER FAILS TO RETURN A SWORN SCHEDULE LISTING HIS PROPERTY TO THE ASSESSOR OF COOK COUNTY MUST ESTIMATE ITS VALUE ACCORDING TO HIS BEST JUDGMENT AND INFORMATION, AND ADD THERETO A PENALTY OF 50 PER CENT, ASSESSMENTS RAISED ON ESTIMATES AND RETURNS HAVE EQUAL STANDING IN LAW.

The amounts herein listed are the assessed values of personal property as of April 1, 1961, as determined by the Assessor of Cook County.

The amount listed as the assessed value is not the tax. The tax may be determined by multiplying the assessed valuation after it has been equalized by the Department of Revenue of the State of Illinois, by the tax rate in the Town and District in which the property is assessed. The Assessor has nothing to do with the equalization of values or the establishment of tax rates.

BASIS OF COMPLAINT ON ASSESSMENTS

Where a property owner has a specific claim of over or under valuation, complaint may be filed with the Board of Appeals in the County Building immediately after this notice.

INFORMATION ON ASSESSMENTS

Each property owner who has any questions in regard to the same, should inquire at the office of the Assessor of Cook County, Room 312, County Building, information will be furnished without cost.

P. J. CULLERTON
Assessor of Cook County

Village Employees Adopt Social Security Plan

The Frankfort village board would have met next Monday night if it followed its regular schedule but because Mayor George Sangmeister and Village Clerk Walter Pfaff will be in Springfield then at the Illinois Municipal League meeting the board met Monday of this week.

When the next regular meeting is held, which will be Nov. 20, the board will adopt an ordinance fixing social security as the pension plan for regularly salaried employees.

Municipal employees can be pension under social security or the Illinois Municipal Retirement Act. Either way it is necessary for the governing body to enact an ordinance.

Regular salaried employees of Frankfort are Clerk Pfaff, Chief of Police Francis Simon and Victor Eisenbrandt, of the sewer and water department. They chose the social security plan.

At the meeting this week Village Attorney Albert H. Krusemark was instructed to have the ordinance ready for adoption Nov. 20.

The board purchased a two-way radio for use by the police department in expediting calls and messages. It was purchased from Wilco Distributors, Frankfort, for $192.95. It provides communication with Mokena and New Lenox police and Civil Defense units.

Trustees are marking trees this week that will have to be removed from public parkways

Sewer Hookups

Residents of the village of Frankfort, who have not yet connected their homes or business places with the new sanitary sewer system, can expect court to be summoned to appear in police court.

Final deadline for such connections was Wednesday, Nov. 1. There are but a very few people who have not made connections with the sewer, Village Clerk Walter Pfaff reported Monday night. Persons who have not disconnected septic tank connections or who run roof water into the sanitary sewer can also expect to be brought in to court.

Each day the connections are not made or broken constitutes a separate offense, it was pointed out and upon conviction the fine may be anywhere from $5 to $100 for each violation.

The board also plans to fix the fee for connecting to the sewer at $100. The connection fee for water remains what it has been, $150.

Because of the inability to penetrate the Sandburg defensive line, the Rams went to the air 25 times completing 11 passes for 152 yards. Reavis co-captain, Bob Pehanich, was responsible for most of that yardage, making numerous spectacular catches.

Defense Stars

Eagles Blank

Reavis 20-0

The Carl Sandburg High School's dentless defense held a determined but outclassed Reavis football team scoreless Saturday on the Sandburg field while the offensive unit scored three touchdowns in the 20-0 win. This was the third shut-out in a row credited to the fine Eagle defensive play.

Sandburg's "Hustling Halfbacks" Dan Wasick and Ernie Sharpe ran for 248 yards on plays from scrimmage and scored a touchdown apiece in the Eagles fourth straight victory since the lone defeat of the season at Rich East on Sept. 20.

In the last four games the Eagles have struck fast, scoring on their first series of plays after getting possession of the ball.

Jim Lavine, proving to be the finest quarterback in the conference, broke the scoring early in the first period. He crossed over on a sneak from the two yard line after an advance from midfield on an Ernie Sharpe to Darrel Hyink pass and a pair of line plays.

Dan Wasick's touchdown came in the second quarter from the one yard line on the heels of a successful aerial from Lavine to Sharpe that netted 35 yards. Senior letterman Wasick carried 20 times for 116 yards and a 5.8 average. He also returned a punt for 48 yards.

Ernie Sharpe, Sandburg's sophomore sensation, maintained his lead in the conference scoring race with a touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 33 yard pass from Lavine and two extra points. In 16 plays from scrimmage Sharpe averaged more than eight yards a carry, amassing 132 yards. That figure doesn't include the 33 yard pass play and a 35 yard kickoff return.

Lincoln Way Varsity Bows To Bremen

By PAUL BROWN

A much bigger Bremen team wore down the smaller Knights at home Friday afternoon, 14-0. The Braves from Midlothian scored once in the second quarter and once in the fourth stanza.

The first touchdown came on a 3-yard plunge by Fred Cornish midway in the second quarter. Cornish also booted the extra point. The final Bremen touchdown came on a 15-yard pass play from Frank Carlson to Cliff Cebulski. Once again Cornish booted the conversion.

The closest the Knights came to paydirt was late in the third quarter when they drove down to the Brave 9-yard line. This drive failed when the Knights couldn't manage to get the necessary yardage for a first down.

There were several penalties in the game. Bremen was penalized nine times for a total of 85 yards and Lincoln-Way was penalized three times for 35 yards. L-W managed to recover three Brave fumbles and Bremen recovered one Knight fumble and intercepted one pass.

In the rushing and passing departments the Knights were obviously outplayed. Bremen picked up 228 yards rushing to 81 for L-W, and the Braves picked up 30 yards through the air while the Knights failed to connect on a pass.

Next week Lincoln-Way closes out its 1961 football season against Rich of Park Forest. Rich hasn't lost a game thus far and has been tied once. They have only been scored upon twice. If the Knights could upend Rich, as they are planning on doing, it would easily be the biggest upset in the conference this year.

The L-W frosh-soph managed to defeat Bremen, 22-12.
